

Brad J. Monterio is the Executive Vice President of Member Competency & Learning at The Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA).

Brad has over 26 years of experience in accounting, audit, governance, risk, and compliance (GRC), and technology sectors. He is skilled in portfolio strategy, product management/development, product delivery, learning technologies, instructional design, education partnerships, learning competency frameworks, sponsorships and advertising.

As an ESG subject matter expert, Brad has been working in the global sustainability movement for more than 14 years. He is The IIA voting representative to the Integrated Reporting & Connectivity Council (IRCC), part of the IFRS Foundation, as well as to the Advisory Board of the ESG Exchange. He regularly speaks, writes, and blogs on technology, corporate disclosure, data governance, integrated reporting, XBRL, ESG/sustainability, marketing, and communications issues. Brad has also held various national and international commission roles for diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) efforts in the accounting, auditing, and actuarial sectors.

Brad was a Global Director on the Institute of Management Accountants (IMA) Board for 12 years. He is a current member of the IMA Sustainable Business Management Committee, and chair emeritus of the IMA Diversity & Inclusion Committee as well as the Technology Solutions & Practices (TS&P) Committee. He was also a Director on the board of the Casualty Actuarial Society for 6 years. He is a member of the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) Technology Global Forum, the Integrated Reporting US Working Group, Thomson Reuters Foundation Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (DEI) Advisory Board, and also sits on the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA) Extension Internal Audit Advisory Board.

Brad earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Dartmouth College.